

Hi Everybody,

What an adventure! When I last wrote my paws were freezing and my fur had icicles hanging down. Captain Scott was no fun at all because he kept going out in the snow and leaving the door open! Born in a barn, that one.

Luckily the blue box was there and I managed to work out how to program it to take me back to 2019, and this time to somewhere hot, hot, hot!

As you can see in the picture, I am now in the Amazon rainforest. There are so many weird and wonderful plants and creatures around, although some of them are quite scary so I've have to dig a burrow to hide in! I don't know much about rainforests or the country I'm in, Brazil. Maybe you could find time to research some facts as you're probably spending all day sleeping in the classroom. I hope your teachers aren't snoring too loudly!

Get fact finding buddies,

See you soon, ya big baboons,

Sunny xxx
